Brooklyn, NY

Hi! I'm Joe, a Brooklyn-based graphic designer with more than seven years of experience in live event print production, new business development presentations, and web design. I'm currently the Graphics Lead and Creative Services Manager for productionglue, a New York City-based production company in charge of event signage, printed collateral, presentations for new business, digital marketing, and team building. I've had the pleasure of working with such amazing companies as Bloomberg Philanthropies, Nike, Turner Broadcasting, WeWork, GroupNine Media, and Major League Soccer.

I have experience as both a freelancer and as a full-time in-house designer. My freelance work has taught me how to quickly adapt to new teams and learn new formats in time crunches, while my in-house background has provided me experience multi-tasking, as I manage multiple projects for different clients on a daily basis. I also have experience in design team building, social media marketing, video editing, motion graphics, and corporate branding.

I'm currently seeking opportunities to work with unique brands and to take on a new set of challenges.
